EASTERN UNITS PREPARING FOR DISORGANIZATION

Deputy Minister Confers With Association's Executive —Final Decision Oct. 19

M. L. Gray, Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs, met the executive committee of the Hanna-to-Alaska Municipal Districts Association in an important conference at Hanna last week to consider disorganization of some fourteen municipalities affiliated with this association and, as the name implies, situated along the Moose Lake Line between Hanna and the Saskatchewan border. As a result of this meeting, it is assumed that disorganization will follow, although official action on the part of the municipalities will not be taken until some time next week when a further meeting of the Association will be held in Chinook on Friday Oct. 19.

ing the Association consists of James Cameron, of M. D. Sounding Creek, Chairman; E. D. Blain, of M. D.
Dowling Lake No. 305 and W. J. Asia, of M. D. Cereal No. 214.

Disorganization of some fourteen municipalities has been suggested by the Department of Municipal Affairs in order that necessary guarantees and provisions of funds for the carrying out of relief, hospitalization and other services which might be undertaken by the government, and so that necessary supervision of disbursements may be in the hands of the government. While the municipalities concerned realize the justice of the Department's proposal, there is a desire to retain local autonomy. Under existing legislation joint control is impossible. When next Friday's meeting of the municipalities is held, it is expected that the delegates will report back to their respective councils and recommend early dissolution. Reeves of these municipalities, with the possibility of small special committees, may be retained in an advisory capacity to work with the official administrator. There is also the possibility of organization of larger units within the coming year to come under the jurisdiction of a government controller, should provincial legislation be amended to permit. Disorganization with resulting official administration is proposed only until the end of 1935.

Mr. D. J. Stewart, of Calgary arrived here on Tuesday to visit with his mother, sister and brothers, also looking after his farm interests.

NEXT YEAR'S GRASSHOPPERS

Grasshoppers will be with us again next year, according to the provincial field crops branch, which issues a warning to farmers and some advice as to cultivation to minimize the infestation next spring. It is pointed out that any illage which can be carried on to destroy all eggs in stubble land will reduce next year's outbreak to such an extent that poisoning will only be necessary along the edges of fields. Farmers are urged to keep in touch with the department at Edmonton, or the federal Entomological service at Lethbridge for further advice on the problem.

It also may be looked upon as a link connect-

Lessons Of The Depression

Perhaps the wish is father to the thought but it is quite evident that, in steadily increasing degree, people are expressing the view that the depression which has hung over the world like a fog for the past five years is lifting, slowly perhaps but nevertheless surely, and that gleams of sunlight are seeping through for the encouragement of mankind and the restoration of confidence.

In support of this view statistics are quoted of increased business, rising prices, more employment, increased revenues for the railways, rising national revenues. Betterments of this kind are noted, not in one but in many countries, and from many quarters come reports that there is a growing tendency on the part of people with money to invest to again proceed to do so.

Whether this more optimistic viewpoint is justified we are not in a position to say, and it is just possible that the statistical betterment noted is the result of the injection of artificial stimulants into the arteries of business by governmental bodies, rather than the outcome of a natural and more substantial improvement in conditions. Whatever may be the underlying cause of this slowly returning confidence, it is undeniable that it exists, and people believe that the tide waters which have been running so strongly in an adverse direction for so long have passed the peak and are now beginning to flow in an opposite and more favorable direction.

Coupled with this, there is recognition in Western Canada that, while such betterments may be seen in other parts of the country and the world, there can be no marked improvement throughout this section of the Dominion until it is blessed with more favorable and normal climatic conditions, resulting in some profitable return to our agricultural population for the continuous labor they have expended. Unemployment has not been the curse of the vast majority of Western people. They have worked long and arduous hours, 365 days in the year, but Nature in an unkind mood for some years past has denied to our working farmers any profitable return from their labor; in fact, in thousands of cases no return at all. Loss has been added to loss, and the cumulative effect has been to throw tens of thousands of other people out of employment because there was no work to be had. Such climatic conditions will not permanently continue.

Possibly one of the best indications that the depression is passing is that people are beginning to take note of the lessons which it has taught. Some of these are of a purely material and practical kind. For instance, and despite a certain school of thought which urges that man should plan his activities from year to year, and, as nearly as possible, balance production with consumption, there is a growing recognition of the wisdom displayed in Egypt in the days of the Pharaohs when under the guidance of Joseph they laid by and accumulated reserves in the years of plenty to carry them through the lean years. It is more and more coming to be accepted as a truism that in Western Canada we must do likewise.

But above and beyond the material lessons taught by the depression—lessons, it is to be hoped, that have been well learned by many—there are moral, ethical, spiritual lessons, the importance and significance of which will, it is also to be hoped, leave a lasting impression.

Ritchie, the famous prize-fighter, is reported to have once said that he never knew how good he was until he got his first licking. Many of us have taken a pretty severe licking in different ways during the past five years. It sometimes does a man good to be thoroughly floored. It may call up reserves of energy that he never realized were his. And this seems to be, ought to be, to the credit side of the depression. Adversity brings out the strength of character of men and women, or the lack of it. Seemingly strong men have gone down and gone under; others have displayed an initiative and developed traits of character and strength which even they did not know they possessed.

Assuming that the fog of the depression is lifting, and that we are again slowly emerging into the sunlight of more prosperous times, now is a good time to take stock of what the depression has actually done to us and taught us as individuals and as a nation. If we correctly size ourselves up as individuals, and profit by our inventory of ourselves, the not much better, stronger, more enduring. This, then, is a time for realistic balance sheets—balance sheets of character, of habits, of motives, as well as, and even more important in the final analysis than balance sheets of money, stocks, bonds and chattels.

"I have just taken a real inventory," said a man who has had his full share of bad business breaks. "I've thrown out a lot of stuff I used to carry as assets. For instance, I carried on my payroll a lot of useless luxuries that were called 'friends.' When I couldn't manage the upkeep any longer, I let them go. Then I found out that they had been standing in front of people that really were friends. I'd been spending time and money on people that didn't mean a thing to me, and neglecting those who did. Now I see a few special people often, and have a better time with them. I think, on the whole, I've come through the depression pretty well. The cash value of my estate has shrunk considerably, but that's balanced by a big increase in what can't be measured by any yardstick of dollars and cents. The result is, my net worth is greater. There's a good side to going broke."

How many people have been wasting time, money and energy upon things that really do not count, and neglecting those that are worthwhile and make life what it ought to be and was intended by an all-wise Creator to be.

Has the depression taught you who your real friends are? Are you a better man or woman because of the depression, or have you revealed weaknesses of character and slipped? Are you now showing determination to profit by the lessons learned. If so, with all its worries and difficulties and even sufferings, the depression may be turned to good account. It's up to you.

Walked Seven Hundred Miles

Indian From North Accompanied By Wife And Two Children

Governor Ashley Cooper of the Hudson's Bay Company in his visit to Winnipeg from the north said: "One of the most interesting figures on board our ship was an Indian interpreter from the post at Fort Mackenzie, Labrador. In the early part of the year he had walked from there to Seven Islands on the St. Lawrence river, 700 miles by the route he took. This he accomplished in 70 days in the depth of winter, accompanied by his wife and two small children. It was a very remarkable journey, though he seemed to regard it as of no account."

Glaciers Move Backwards

Unusual Happening In Switzerland Explained By Scientists

No fewer than 81 of 100 glaciers in Switzerland which have been under observation by the Society of Natural Sciences are reported to be moving backwards. Of the remainder, 15 are moving forward and four are standing still. The scientists say that the 81 glaciers are moving backwards because they are melting more quickly at their "ends" than they are being pushed forward.

Travelled In Baggage Car

Argentina's Fat Man Could Not Get Into Coach

Argentina claims the world's fattest man. He is Pedro Cardozo, a butcher, weighing 638 pounds. He arrived at Buenos Aires from Rosario after travelling in a baggage car because he could not enter the coaches. He is 30 years old, 5 feet, 6 inches tall, with a waistline of 7 feet 10 inches, a forearm of 1 foot 10 inches, and a thigh of 3 feet 9 inches. When he was 19 he weighed only 158 pounds, but he had to quit working at 25 because he had reached his present weight and could not stand on his feet more than a few minutes at a time.

Siren Warns About Tides

Quicksands In France Traps For Feet Of Unwary

Mont Saint-Michel, most photographed French landmark, is to be provided with sirens against the peril of the sea.

Due to the advisability of protecting strollers along the quicksands, incidentally, has led to the discovery that there is no such thing as being swallowed up by these oceanic bogs.

Many an ancient Breton mariner, it was revealed, has been caught in quicksands and survived. The question is one of time. Rarely is a man sucked down to above the waistline, because the subsol is firm at that level, but many have been caught at a time when the tide was coming in and drowned.

The danger is that of drowning when the tide comes up from seemingly nowhere filling the vast reaches of sand with furious torrents and treacherous eddies.

Victims more often than not are visitors who start out for the historic island of Tombellane, and fooled by their calculations of distance and time into being trapped by the tide.

Some, of course, are caught in quicksands and are unable to free themselves before the tide gets up to their chests. Seized with panic even if caught only up to their knees, they struggle frantically, and although it is not true that they sink into the sand, it is true that their methodless struggles prevent them from getting free.

Siren on the hill, it is argued, would warn these travellers to turn back in time. It also is proposed to erect concrete "islands" at various points for the protection of promenaders caught by the tide.

Perfected New Device

Safety Of Children Cold weather source of discomfort and danger

Children's skins are very tender. Fall and winter winds and dampness quickly make them tender, raw and sore. They need the protection of Hinds Honey and Almond Cream. This smooth creamy lotion gives pain and relief to little hands, necks and faces.

Worse than the soreness, is the danger which lurks when one's skin becomes cracked and bleeding from constant exposure. These open, smarting cracks in little hands can easily become infected. Apply Hinds Honey and Almond Cream generously to tender skins—it's smooth, cool texture will soothe hands and faces after washing, and form an adequate protection against wind and dampness. An instant relief for chapped hands—constant protection against them—Hinds Honey and Almond Cream has been the reliable remedy for old and young since 1875.

Old Ship Scuttled

Otago Was Once Commanded By Conrad The Novelist

Sixty-three years ago a small sailing ship of 348 tons, the Otago, left Liverpool for Port Chalmers, New Zealand. She did the voyage in the all record time of 85 days, and many were the yarns told of her, both in the town and at her destination.

Now she has been taken out to sea for the last time and scuttled. It just did not pay to break her up. But her past was a tale of romance. She was once the command of Joseph Conrad, novelist, and later he made references to her in his books—"The Mirror of the Sea," "Falk," and "The Shadow Line."

Built in 1860, she put up some fine performances. Once she sailed 306 miles in 24 hours. Her last days were spent as a coal hulk in Hobart, Tasmania, a battered but proud vessel.

World Peace

League Of Nations Society In Canada Organizing Mass Meeting

Canadians are vitally interested in world peace. Primarily this is true because of the humanitarian outlook of our people and because of the stress we rightly place upon law and order in all realms, not excluding that of international affairs. This general outlook is strengthened for us by two special considerations. Firstly, our position as a member of the British Commonwealth would make it exceedingly difficult for us to avoid becoming involved in any large-scale conflict. Secondly, our trade position as a great exporting country makes it exceedingly important for us that confidence, peace and financial stability be restored throughout the world.

The League of Nations Society in Canada is organizing a series of mass meetings throughout Canada late in October, 1934, with a view to bringing these and other important considerations before our people and developing a sound public opinion in support of the maintenance of peace.

The three signatories hereto, being the Saskatchewan members of the National Council of the Society, urge all communities in Saskatchewan to join with the rest of Canada in this demonstration by organizing local meetings and addresses at that time. Programs and necessary information and assistance can be obtained from the Society's office, 124 Wellington Street, Ottawa, on request. Canada is not a militaristic nation, but the best safeguard against its becoming so and the best assurance of our influence remaining a steady one at Geneva and elsewhere abroad is the development of a strong public opinion within our own country. We therefore are confidently and earnestly commending this program to our fellow citizens of Saskatchewan. L. C. Brouillette, Regina; Andrew S. Sibbald, Saskatoon; (Mrs.) Violet McNaughton, Saskatoon.

Butter, cheese, bran and pollard, oilmeal and oilcake, oats, wheat and rye flour, lard, bacon and hams, salted beef and pork, condensed milk, refined sugar, unmanufactured, unstemmed stalk tobacco, potatoes, onions and lubricating oil are some of the agricultural products supplied by Canada to Barbados, the most easterly island of the British West Indies.

Submarines Made Safer

All the new submarines built for the British navy have two safety devices, one consisting of eye-boats which divers may attach a hawser in case of need, and the other being a battery of buoys which can be released from within the vessel to permit communication with rescuers.

UPSET STOMACH Relieved!

Often in hot weather and occasionally at other times, little stomachs turn sour and acid. "When I notice any sign of sick stomach," says Mrs. J. Alphonso Brown, Bayville, P.E.I., "I always give a Baby's Own Tablet." They quickly set things right and are very easy to take and quite safe. All common ailments of childhood including teething are promptly relieved with Baby's Own Tablets. 25c a package at drug stores.

Baby's Own Tablets

The shipments of livestock from Western to Eastern Canada for the first 36 weeks of 1934, ending September 7, included 62,660 cattle; 701 calves; 150,442 hogs; and 45,222 sheep.

THE TENDERFOOT

By
GEORGE B. RODNEY
Author of "The Coronado Trail",
"The Canyon Trail", Etc.

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," said Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically looting the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—not as Gerald Keene, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wilderness outfit.

Dad Kane, desert rat and luckless prospector till now, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had grubstaked him, of his discovery of a rich gold mine, and shows samples of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests against it.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER III.—Continued

This time Spike scoffed openly. It was no secret on any ranch in Seco Valley that Edith Carr, the red-headed, fiery-tempered daughter of the old owner of the Hour-glass, did exactly as she chose. So did her father. . . . In most things for she dominated even the dour old man whom most men feared. Edith was not red-headed for nothing and Dustin had discovered it once to his sorrow.
When he and Spike had first bought up the loose scrip that gave them title to the Broken Spur, he had vaguely noted the red-headed unformed schoolgirl who occasionally went to the infrequent Valley dances.

Then five years passed; she became the rage and he was suddenly aware that the unforged girl had developed almost overnight into the perfectly formed woman whom men openly coveted.

It was a full two years since Dustin saw her when his eyes were opened. She was coming out of the office in Seco and he, about to enter, stood as though paralyzed at sight of her. Her gray eyes stared at him unseeing and her bright head was upturned as she passed and a couple of "dry drunks" giggled.
Dustin flushed. He did not know now what he would have cared had he known that that very morning old Joe Carr had commented on his known conduct at a Mexican dance and on a household that he maintained in Sepulveda. Dustin raised his hat and stepped up to her.

"Aren't you goin' to say 'Good morning'?" he asked quickly.

"To you? Why? . . ." Edith stopped and looked at him as one might look at a mangy dog and that looked burned even Sam Dustin.

"I'd like to walk up the street with you," he suggested.

The loafers at the office-door did not hear his words but they saw him drop into step with her and they nudged each other. Then they saw her stop and draw herself up. There was no mistaking her words. They came with the whir and snap of a whip-lash.

"The street is open to the public, I believe," she said. "When I walk with any one it will not be with a 'squaw man'."

That was all. Dustin, the big man of the Broken Spur, dropped back

His face was white with wrath and his lips were set. The men who saw it all never said a word about it till they got safely home but after that, word spread. They watched him snatch his horse from the tie-rack and they preserved the silence of the damned till his horse was swallowed up in a dust-whirl. Then:

"She sure set fire to his shirt-tail," quoth old Styles. The others giggled uncomfortably. They knew Dustin fairly well.

Sam Dustin neither forgave nor forgot that incident and more than once he had planned revenge but no opportunity came his way. That one hot encounter marked Edith Carr as the only person in the Valley worth the time and patience to tame her and Dustin swore to himself that tamed she should some day be. Some day he would bring her to heel.

He had sense enough not to try to force his attentions on her. He knew old Joe Carr too well for that for the old man was one of the old breed that held their women-folk sacrosanct.
The man must be better than ordinary to get his legs under old Joe Carr's table where the pretty Edith held sway. That was also the beginning of trouble for the Hourglass ranch.

It was a big ranch. For miles its wire hung up into the hills and its broad ranges pastured many cattle.
But hard luck dogged old Joe Carr's narrow heels. First beef dropped to nine dollars! Then to six. . . .

Then a bucking post slammed him against a bucking-post in the corral and broke his leg in two places. The break healed imperfectly. It had to be rebroken twice and the pain and the irritation over being a cripple when every man was urgently needed, awoke the old fever that had never really subsided since Edith's mother was laid away in the little burying-ground under the great almshouse cotton-woods.

From day to day Edith tried gallantly to stop that solitary drinking. She saw her father go into his office after supper; she saw the door close and she knew only too well what was taking place behind that closed door.

Twice she tried to force an entrance each time she was repelled and the door was locked. Sick at heart, for she knew what the trouble was, she fled to old Frank Crewe, the foreman.

"Is there no way to make him stop?" she sobbed. "Oh, Frank!
You know what it means! He's too good a man to go wrong at a time like this!"

Crewe nodded. "He's too good a man to run off the straight at all," he said. "I've busted his bottles till the back-roads look like a bankrupt glass foundry, Miss Edith, but I'll be darned if I can make him see sense.
The size of the matter is that he's just plumb worryin' himself into the bed and he's drinkin' to keep on it. Darn him! He ought to know that with times like these those two men Dustin and Goddard over at the Broken Spur are just settin' up at nights waitin' for a chance at him.
If he aint darned careful they'll get it too."

They did get their chance and they knew well how to take advantage when it came their way. They both knew what was taking place at the Hour-glass. A drinking boss means a careless bunk-house and any ranchman knows what that means.
It spells disaster.

The result was not quick-moving.
It came with the slow growth of an avalanche. That moves very slowly at first till sheer weight overcomes inertia. Then it becomes suddenly dangerous. That first slow danger showed first in a slight lessening of the number of calves branded. . . .
Then a long line of fence broke down and no one discovered it till too late.
Cattle strayed off the home ranges and if they ended at all, brought forth their young in hidden places where no one discovered them till too late. Then a few calves with slitted tongues. . . . That told its own story to range-bred men. . . . Calves whose tongues were slit to keep them from suckling their own dams. . . .
Then followed a gradual drop in the grade of the stock. . . . Any one could see it! And finally the open legal row over Soda Springs.

High Heaven alone knew why those pools were called Soda Springs.
There were three of them; great jets of clear cold water that sprang from the wall of the upper valley and formed a deep pool at the end of the canyon. In the great pool watercress grew rankly and cattle stood knee-deep in the water under the great trees. Soda Springs was a constant and never failing source of water supply even in the long Dry Season when no rains fell. To the sick and injured Joe Carr the news came as a thunderbolt that Dustin and Goddard had brought suit over the validity of his own claim to the ownership of those springs. No one had ever thought to question his ownership before Dustin raised it and Dustin would never have thought of it but for a word from a drunken "Nester" from whom he and Spike bought the "scrip" that gave them a questionable title to the Broken Spur. No one had ever been refused water-rights there in time of need. The Springs might as well have been on the Open Range.

But the days of the Open Range had passed and along with them went the old-time spirit of freemasonry that made all men free of water and grass at need. It remained for the Broken Spur to force old Joe Carr to defend his title to those Springs by fencing them and barring them to the public. It made him none too popular. Where old Joe had once been the Nestor of the cattle men in Seco Valley, he was likely to become their Tiresias, thanks to the machinations of Dustin and Goddard. He knew the cause of it all. He knew that drink added to the spirit of aggravation already aroused by Dustin and Goddard was making him unpopular where he had once been a favorite, but he could not give way. Finally, dour, silent because he had none to talk to, bitter with hate and wrath at his own inability to keep abreast of the times, he saw his ranch slipping into the cattle depression. It did not improve his temper to note the success of the Broken Spur.

St. Paul's Cathedral

Saving Edifice From Encroachments Of Modern Commercialism

Considerable progress has been made during recent weeks with a scheme for surrounding St. Paul's Cathedral with a "sacred area" within which no deep excavations would be allowed which might endanger the shallow foundations of the building.

Such a scheme was first proposed in 1912, but nothing much came of on behalf of the Cathedral authorities
on behalf of the cathedral authorities, sent a letter to the Lord Mayor involving the corporation to help in protecting the cathedral.

The matter was referred to a special committee of the corporation, and they have been helped by a report on the subsoil and foundations of the cathedral, drawn up after over two years' investigation, by Sir Alexander Gibb and Mr. Ralph Freeman.
The report was accompanied by a model showing the underground condition of the city from Bouverie Street (a turning off Fleet Street) to the Bank of England.

The special committee have recently been drafting a Bill in which it is hoped parliament will establish the controlled area. Though the details of the bill are not yet available, it is expected that it will be submitted to the House of Commons in November and become law next spring.

The editor of the journal of the Architects' Institute remarks that "the acceptance of this scheme, for which Canon Alexander has striven for many years, is of significance not only because of the specific protection afforded to St. Paul's Cathedral, but because it marks the establishment of the principle that a great work should be protected, if necessary by Act of Parliament, from the encroachment of modern commercialism."

New Policy to Assist Farmers Explained by Govt.

(By Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Oct. 17.—Details of the amendments to the Canadian Farm Loan Act, passed at the session of Parliament, in conjunction with the Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act, have been published by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes, and distributed among those concerned.

Under these amendments the board will be empowered to take second mortgage in satisfactory cases to enable the farmer to secure money to carry on his operations.

The explanatory statement says in part.

Amount inadequate

"While the Canadian Farm Loan Act has made provision for adequate rural mortgage loan facilities under normal conditions, under existing conditions the amount of the average mortgage loan available on the nominal margin of security and on the basis of present day values of farm lands has not proved sufficient to refinance the overdue and obligations of farmers incurred at higher price levels, or incurred in the period of re adjustment, following the first severe drop in price levels and farm income.

"The amendments to the Farm Loan Act have been consequently designed to make available to individual farmers larger mortgage loans on a consequently smaller than normal margin of security."

"This has been done by empowering the board to make farmers applying for loan not only an advance by way of loan restricted to a maximum of 50 per cent, of the appraised value of the lands, plus 20 per cent of the value of buildings thereon, but also a further, and additional advance, if so required by the applicant, on the security of a second mortgage on the said real estate, and on the security of a mortgage on his livestock and chattels up to a maximum of one half of the amount of the first mortgage advance $7,500 Limit

But the aggregate of the amounts advanced should not exceed two-thirds of the appraised value of the farm lands, and the buildings thereon accepted as security for loans, nor in any event more than $7,500.

"The additional advances, which may be for convenience termed 'second mortgage loans,' are repayable on terms not exceeding a period of six years and carry interest at the rate of not more than 1 per cent in excess of the current rate of interest charged on first mortgage loans.

It is anticipated that with the larger aggregate of loans thus made available, a considerable number of farmers will be enabled to re-finance existing obligations at lower interest rates and on easier terms of repayment, be enabled to take advantage of favorable cash compromises of debts offered by creditors and obtain replacements of stock and equipment and building repairs; all of which would not be possible with the smaller amount available by way of a first mortgage loan only.

The determining factors in granting loans are the capabilities of the individual farmer, based on his past record of operations, and the productive value of the farm.

Loans will be granted, however, only where the amount advanced will serve to consolidate completely the applicant's existing liabilities.

ASSISTANCE TO EXHIBITORS

Assistance usually granted by the provincial department of Agriculture to seed grain exhibitors at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, and the Chicago International, will be forthcoming this winter, according to announcement made by department officials. In connection with exhibits of seed grain at the Royal Winter Fair, which is held during the latter part of November, the province will pay the entry fees and freight shipping costs to Toronto on approved exhibits in classes for registered or certified seed and on exhibits in the junior club classes. The return shipping costs will not be paid. The entry fees must first be paid by the shipper, and will be refunded. On seed grain exhibits to Chicago the transportation costs will be paid by the province both ways. To winners of one or more first prizes or championships an honorarium of $50 will be paid by the province, which will be increased to $100 in the case of wheat, oats or barley. The provisions with respect to payment of transportation costs has to do only with freight shipments. Where exhibits have to be expedited, only half the cost will be paid. The usual assistance will also be given on live stock exhibits at the Royal Fair at Toronto, and the exhibits this year are expected to be fully up to the standard of former years.

CHINA WANTS ALBERTA HORSES

Whether or not the Orient is preparing for war, the fact remains that China is making a demand on Canada for cavalry and artillery horses, and echoes of this demand have reached Alberta via Ottawa. This province should be able to provide 500 head or so of such animals. It is believed by those who should know, and a canvass of the situation is now being made in reply to the queries from Ottawa.

WHEAT INSPECTIONS

An interesting analysis of wheat inspections so far this year reflects the effects of the early heavy frosts on the grades of the grain in the northern districts, but reveals also the gratifying information that Southern Alberta has not only marketed much wheat at this date than was the case last year, but that the grades are just as good if not a shade better. Calgary reports a total of 5,200 cars inspected between August 15 and September 33, with 89 per cent of the wheat grading No. 2 or better, as compared with a total inspection of only 3,474 cars in the same period last year, with the grading percentage just about the same. At Edmonton, however, there is not only a drop of nearly 1,000 cars in the number inspected since August 15, as compared with last year, but the percentage of those grading No. 2 or better has dropped this year to 72.2 per cent from last year's percentage of 91.

PEYTON NEWS

Some of the people in the district had a clean up day at the Peyton school on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of holding card parties and dances during the winter.

The first card party and dance of the season will be held at Peyton School, Friday, Oct. 19th, ladies please bring lunch.

Threshing is nearly finished in this district which is a great relief for all concerned.

Little Henry Bjornrud entertained a number of guests at his third birthday on Saturday. Among the guests present were Margaret Maurer, Ruth Robison, Louise Robison, Julia Peyton and Richard Peyton.

Miss Margaret Maurer was a week end visitor at the Robison home.

NATURAL PRODUCTS

Total coal production in Alberta for the eight months ending August 31st this year was 5,734,626 tons, compared to 2,497,166 tons for the same period last year.

The eight-month production of petroleum for this year was 952,228 bbls. compared with 632,454 bbls. in the eight-month period of 1933.

Timber products for the 1933-34 fiscal year showed an improved crop of 11.1 over that for the 1932-33 year; the lumber production being 55,208,032 board feet in the previous year. Other lines of timber products showed a similar increase.

EDMONTON, Oct. 12.—This week the capital has been bombarded with what one might call "manufactured" news. Word leaked out somehow that the Alberta government had bought six new automobiles for the exclusive use of members of the cabinet. Then the fact was in the flames.

One of the Edmonton daily papers took the matter up, and what it didn't take up, it worked up in good style, so that by the end of the week, the public knows just what make the cars are, what they cost, how much gasoline is bought and used by cabinet members, and even an "extraneous" lot of men they must be. That, of course, is what the aforesaid newspaper says, not what the writer of this column says.

What people are saying in the city—many scores of them in all shades of political coloring—is that it is a storm in a teapot. "What a bother about such a little!" Of course it is fat-peddles, which means that "all is fat in love and war," but it seems a poor way of working up news to fill a newspaper. Many business firms consider it practical economy to turn in their old cars and get new ones, because new cars cost less to operate than old ones. It was pointed out by one Edmontonian, that the inconsistency of the fact that the very newspaper that makes the fuss has followed that same plan with regard to the autos it has owned. But that is business and that is politics, and even a fairly good government, if there is such a thing, cannot afford to do what an ordinary business can do, because of the critics opposing it.

Then the newspaper above referred to, again found a source of "news" with which to fill up space, in the fact that the attorney-general's department decided that the newspapers should be treated just like other people are, neither worse nor better in regard to the examination of court documents. Other people have to pay a fee for such examinations, but the newspapers want to do so free.

This subject was given columns of space in one newspaper and the old-time shillboleth "the freedom of the press" was invoked for the benefit of the reading public. Thousands of words were printed with the object of proving to the public what champions of the people the newspapers are. When it is all boiled down to fact no liberty of the press has been touched, and nobody will care a whoop about it excepting the newspapers in Edmonton and Calgary, who will have to pay the same fees everybody else pays for certain information in connection with court cases. It is wonderful how small is the estimate placed on the intelligence of the long-suffering public by the daily newspapers. All that is wrong with the order from the attorney-general's department is the fifty cents which the newspapers have been getting away with in searches on court documents. If there had been no 50 cts. involved, the public would never have had reams of reading of piffle about the freedom of the press to do.

"Everybody wants an untrammelled press, but why should it not pay for the news it gets, out of the profits it makes on it?" asked one prominent lawyer in Edmonton.

BERTAWAN SHORTAGE

FOUND TO BE $40.178

Audit of the books of M. D. Bertawan, Sibbald, was completed this week according to H. Kidney, inspector of municipalities. Mr. Kidney was a visitor in Hanna on Wednesday and gave out the official statement that the deficit incurred by the defalcation of the municipal secretary, W. Linklater, is shown to be $40.178. In commenting upon the situation in Bertawan, Mr. Kidney stated that Henry Clark, C.A. of Saskatoon, had completed one of the longest and most difficult audits in the history of municipal work in the province of Alberta. Incidentally Mr. Kidney stated that several prominent farmers of the eastern municipality will shortly be removed to take up residence in the vicinity of Cardston.

The crime waves that periodically come to every city, come to Edmonton also, and this week, there have been robberies, hold-ups, murder charges, and even a hanging at Fort Saskatchewan. So that the people in the capital have had a surfeit of ghastly, crime news to act as the jam in the sandridge of the "worked-up" news in the daily papers during the past week. One robber was accidentally shot by a policeman who was arresting him, in a scuffle in which the man resisted arrest.

"The weather" is always the best and most important of news, as it is always, everywhere the theme of conversation. So it is not out of place to state that the capital has been enjoying the most wonderfully beautiful weather, clear, sunny days and cool nights, for the greater part of this week. For the sake of the farmers may it continue long. There was a new moon this week, and that may be an important factor in the news about the weather.
